

COVID-19 - Update on Assurity Consulting Service Provision

Since the onset of the current COVID-19 outbreak Assurity Consulting has been carefully following the advice provided by the government, devolved administrations, the national public health bodies and NHS on what we should be doing to maintain the quality and reliability of our services for all customers while also keeping our people safe.

In view of the significant changes to government advice issued on the 10th May 2020 however, we now feel that we can gradually 'get back to work' in a manageable way with the new work requirements. We will make sure our site visits can be carried out maintaining the safety of our customers' and or our own staff, while not adversely affecting the management or spread of this pandemic in the UK.

Whilst respecting these new laws and the fast-moving changing guidance, Assurity Consulting will be taking stock of any new measures in the coming days and weeks and we will be developing strategies to allow us to access customer premises for mutually agreed priority support.

To protect our employees and to help limit the spread of COVID-19, the majority of our employees are home working where possible, but our head office is open from 09:00-17:00, for limited essential services. Currently, if you are an Assurity Consulting customer please email info@assurityconsulting.co.uk or contact us through our enquiries page.
